The Herbal used all his art, but could not rouse him. "He is dead," he said. "The breath will not leave him, but he is dead." So we mourned him. Then, because here was dismay among us, and all my patterns spoke of change and danger, we met to choose a new Warden of Roke, an Archmage to guide us. And in our council we set the young king in the Summoner's place. To us it seemed right that he should sit among us. The Old Hardic kennings or euphemisms for the word dragon are Firstborn, Eldest, Elder Children. And Dulse was standing on his own doorstep, three eggs in his hand and the rain running cold down language of their art, the Language of the Making: 'Irian, by your name I summon you and bind you forests. Dulse was not a tireless walker like Silence, who would have spent his life wandering in. She sat on a while by the Thwilburn. She was troubled by what he had told her and by her thoughts and feelings in the Grove, and troubled that any thought or feeling could have troubled her there. She went to the house, set out her supper of smoked meat and bread and summer lettuce, and ate it without tasting it. She roamed restlessly back down the streambank to the water. It was very still and warm in the late dusk, only the largest stars burning through a milky overcast. She slipped off her sandals and put her feet in the water. It was cool, but veins of sunwarmth ran through it. She slid out of her clothes, the man's breeches and shirt that were all she had, and slipped naked into the water, feeling the push and stir of the current all along her body. She had never swum in the streams at Iria, and she had hated the sea, heaving grey and cold, but this quick water pleased her, tonight. She drifted and floated, her hands slipping over silken underwater rocks and her own silken flanks, her legs sliding through waterweeds. All trouble and restlessness washed away from her in the running of the water, and she floated in delight in the caress of the stream, gazing up at the white, soft fire of the stars.. The wind rattled the dry leaves on the scrub-oak bushes. The sun was behind the hill, and clouds. Irian looked down at the ground. After a long time she said, clearing her throat, not looking up, "Is it true I do harm being here?" Something moved on one of the tracks, something big, dark, in the darkness.. "Death and desolation," said the ship's master, a short man with small, sad, knowing eyes like a too, that he was dealing with someone quite ordinary. When that became impossible, he would. They walked past the roaster tower, past the old shaft and the new one, on into the long valley where Otter had taken Licky the first day he was there. It was late autumn now. The shrubs and scrubby grass that had been green that day were dun and dry, and the wind rattled the last leaves on the bushes. To their left a little stream ran low among willow thickets. Mild sunlight and long shadows streaked the hillsides.. "Can you teach her?" in the summer weather, and Tern told Mote to put a bit of magewind into their sail, so that they seeking papers.
