Erreth-Akbe's gifts in magic became apparent when he was still a boy. He was sent to the court to "I may be able to help the beasts." "It was a hundred and twenty-seven years ago. I was thirty then. The expedition. . . I was." "He told me what it's like," Dragonfly said. "You walk up through the town, Thwil Town. There's a man came in the door with a gust of cold wind, "the gentleman will stay with us while he's curing. she still scowled, sometimes she smiled, but she did not laugh. When she could, she went to the white high-held explosion of unbelievable wings; between them, columns, made not of any. become them to guide them, but he could not hurry. There was on him the bewilderment of any. That's all he really told me, yet," said Dragonfly, coming back to the mild, overcast spring day and the infinite familiarity of the village lane, Rose's front yard, her own seven milch ewes grazing on Iria Hill, the bronze crowns of the oaks. "He's very careful how he talks about the Masters." "Things don't mix," he said. "They ought to, but they don't. I found that out. When I left the wizard, I thought I could be everything. You know -- do magic, play music, be Father's son, love Rose.... It doesn't work that way. Things don't mix." with you drawing you to the particular attention of the Master Summoner. ".trembling, like a hound that wants to chase but cannot find the scent. He was at a loss. There was Irioth's head drooped as if in utter weariness. All tension and passion had gone out of his body. But he looked up, not at Ged but at Gift, silent in the hearth corner. Gelluk had never met a man he feared. A few wizards had crossed his path strong enough to make him even know if they were occupied or not, since they had no windows. Six streets led from the. "I'm not truly a teller, mistress," he said with his pleasant smile, "but I do have a story for. She looked at him in the starlight, and said, "Tell me your name - not your true name - only what I can call you. When I think of you." aggrandize himself. "I will," he said, to comfort her. rebuilt, Ogion escaped from praise and went up into the hills above Gont Port. He found the queer. We make a pretty good living. Winters, I go stay with Mother and help her. "So we must follow her?" the Herbal asked. what he ought to have said. He did not want to encourage the boy to spend any more time on music. No wind stirred. The air was soft, the big sail hung slack. Only the western stars faded and vanished in a silent blackness that rose slowly higher. The master looked at that. "Witchwind, you say?" he asked, reluctant. most of the work. The ewe bore the digging knife patiently, her opaque, amber, slotted eyes gazing. underground lake, which reflected the vaults of the rocks. There, too, on flimsy little rafts, people. Small islands and villages are generally governed by a more or less democratic council or Parley. All spells use at least a word of the Old Speech, though the village witch or sorcerer may not clearly know its meaning. Great spells are made wholly in the Old Speech, and are understood as they are spoken. from the Earth branch of Adapt would be waiting and all I had to do was to find him at a. "My son, there is no reason," she said, suddenly passionate, "there is no reason why you should give up everything you love!" much as if she was with him, as that she was him, or that he was her. Azver the Patterner stood with his left hand holding his right hand, which her touch had burnt. He looked down at the men who stood silent at the foot of the hill, staring after the dragon. "Well, my friends," he said, "what now?" A millennium and a half ago or more, the runes of Hardic were developed so as to permit narrative. power from them for himself, leaving them silent. They couldn't say what had happened to them. as he wished. In the margins of the spells and word lists and in the endpapers of these books of. The Changer and a thin, keen-faced old man standing beside him nodded in agreement. The Master Hand said, "Irian, I am sorry. Ivory was my pupil. If I taught him badly, I did worse in sending him away. I thought him insignificant, and so harmless. But he lied to you and beguiled you. You must not feel shame. The fault was his, and mine." seeking papers. I know you had some once, though you may not now. They've nothing you need in. sleep with on a cold night. Listening to him, Medra thought of how he and Anieb had walked in the dark and rain by the faint. "Yes, but not completely. Maybe a little. But surely you didn't think that I. . .". The Creation of Ea contains no clear references to an original unity and eventual separation of dragons and humans, but this may be because the poem in its presumed original form, in the Language of the Making, dated back to a time before the separation. The best evidence in the poem for the common origin of dragons and humans is the archaic Hardic word in it that is commonly understood as "people" or "human beings," alath. This word is by etymology (from the True Runes Atl and Htha) "word-beings," "those who say words," and therefore could mean, or include, dragons. Sometimes the word used is alherath, "true-word-beings," "those who say true words," speakers of the True Speech. This could mean human wizards, or dragons, or both. In the
