"She's called Dragonfly, and she does all the work, and I saw her once last year. She's tall, and as beautiful as a flowering tree," said the youngest daughter, Rose, who was busy crowding a lifetime of keen observation into the fourteen years that were all she was going to have for it. She broke off, coughing. Her mother shot an anguished, yearning glance at the wizard. Surely he would hear that cough, this time? He smiled at young Rose, and the mother's heart lifted. Surely he wouldn't smile so if Rose's cough was anything serious?.."Di thought it up," Rose said..As mountains will, Andanden makes the weather. It gathers clouds around it. The summer is short, the winter long, out on the high marsh..disposed of. It was as if a grave had opened, a winter grave, cold, wet, dark..saying, "You can learn about the Grove only in it and from it." A few days later she came down to anything much but speed and direction and the sweet taste of river water and the sweet power of marsh, in the cold, for days on end, and wore himself out. "What should I do?" he said aloud after a while. "Go on," the wizard said, and he went. "But you can't undo this!" he said aloud. "dragon feed on?" thought it was the beginning of a great forest like Faliern on Havnor, and then did not know why. "Yes, but not completely. Maybe a little. But surely you didn't think that I . . ." When she laughed, her thin face got bright, her thin mouth got wide, and her eyes disappeared. Irian had waited some hours in the Doorkeeper's chamber, a low, light, bare room with a small-paned window looking out on the kitchen-gardens of the Great House - handsome, well-kept gardens, long rows and beds of vegetables, greens, and herbs, with berry canes and fruit trees beyond. She saw a burly, dark-skinned man and two boys come out and weed one of the vegetable plots. It eased her mind to watch their careful work. She wished she could help them at it. The waiting and the strangeness were very difficult. Once the Doorkeeper came in, bringing her a plate with cold meat and bread and scallions, and she ate because he told her to eat, but chewing and swallowing were hard work. The gardeners went away and there was nothing to watch out the window but the cabbages growing and the sparrows hopping, and now and then a hawk far up in the sky, and the wind moving softly in the tops of tall trees, on beyond the gardens. "The true art prevails over the false. The pattern will hold," Ember said, frowning. She reached. His Herbal came back from the woods and sat down beside him on the bench a while. In the middle of the day he returned to the Great House, agreeing to come back with the Doorkeeper in the morning. They would ask all the other Masters to meet with them in the Grove. "But he won't come," Deyala said, and Azver nodded. It was absolutely silent. out, past the Armed Cliffs! Good luck to you." And he turned and ran back up the street, a tall, spell-protected. Rose had explained to her how wizards' spells worked 'so that it never enters. "You take care," the witch said, grim.
